THE PRESIDENT AND THE PAPERS.

Criticism of Cleveland's Criticism of Certain Leading Newspapers. (From the Charlotte Observer.) A few days ago the President wrote a letter to Mr. Keppler, one of the editors of the New York Puck, in which he took occasion to say that the newspaper of the present day was wiltully mendacions.

The denial of the assertion is being hurled back into Mr. Cleveland's teeth from a thousand presses, from Maine to Mexico. It was an unfortunate expression for the President to use if he really meant Wayland, in his Moral Philosophy asserts that there is much more truth in the world than falsehood. In the everyday new-paper there are a thousand truths, where there is one misstatement. Indeed, as a rule, editors, correspon-

Senator M. C. Butler is certain to become very prominent in the debates of the next two or three years. He is me of the ablest and clearest-headed men on the Democratic side. He has never taken very much part in the debates, but yet has spoken often enough to show that he has unusual powers as a debater, while he has that iggres-ive quality and steady courage which are so necessary to make a successful leader. He is very quiet and gentle in his manners. He is one of the best bred men in the Senate. He would never begin a quarrel, but would be the last man in the world to ruu away from one. He has had a humber of very sharp tilts with Senator Elmunds in the executive sessions of the Senate. It is said of him that he has held his own very well against the savage thrusts of the keen-witted Vermonter. The Senator is very nearly fifty years old. He was educated as a lawyer. He lost a leg in the war of the Rebellion, where he rose to the rank of a major general in the Confederate army. He was one of the earliest of the Southern men to accept the results of the war, and has always been a conservative. He was one of the few white Democrats in South Carolina who opposed the Black Code which his State Legislature adopted soon after it was readmitted to the Union. He has always been a peacemaker between the warlike factions of his State. Through partisan misrepreentation for a time he was made to appear in the North as a leader of the whites at the Hamburg massacre. Yet it was clearly shown afterwards that he went there only after the fighting began and in the interests of peace. Through his personal efforts alone, great many innocent lives were saved.
